

Et devise comment l'assemblee se doit faire en puer et en este.

Ca quele assemblee se fait e tele maniere la nuit devant que le seigneur de la chace ou le maistre veleur voudra aler en boys. il doit faire venir devant lui les venes les aides les varles et les pages.

point venir sus la queste de l'autre ne faire annuy. Et chascun doit quester en la maniere que iay dit du unete quil puet. et leur doit assigner le lieu ou l'assemblee sera. au plus aise de touz. et au plus pres de leurs questes. Et doit estre le lieu ou l'assemblee sera en un biau pre tout vert. ou il aye biaux arbres tout au tour. un long de Gaston III, Count of Foix and Béarn (called "Phoebus"—after the Sun god—because of his golden blond hair) composed his Livre de chasse between 1387-1389. Organized in 4 parts and written in a clear narrative voice, the work not only depicts the multi-faceted forms of hunting, but presents an impressive knowledge of the natural sciences—long before the age of modern empirical science—with detailed observations on the various animal species. Livre de chasse has become the most famous hunting book of the middle ages (altogether 46 copies of the work have survived). The Pierpont Morgan Library's presentation manuscript—created in the atelier of the "Master of Bedford" and commissioned by Philip the Bold (1342-1404)—is one of the most beautiful of them all, with its clear French "textura" hand (written in a Gasconian dialect), 87 precious miniatures and 126 large-format initials.

sFr 10,800

Please call for special OMI price.

The facsimile: 256 pages in the original format (28.6 x 38.5 cm). Limited edition of 980 copies bound in quarter vellum. Commentary by Yves Christe, William Voelke and François Avril.

OMI - Old Manuscripts & Incunabula
PO Box 6019 FDR Station New York NY 10150
tel 212/ 758-1946 - fax 593-6186
www.omifacsimiles.com - immels@earthlink.net